

SATURDAY.....FEBRUARY 13, 1892

A LEGAL DISTINCTION.

An interesting case has just been decided in an Indiana Court. Amos Linter raises rabbits and during the summer frequently visited the cornfield of a neighbor named Pool and pulled the growing corn and carried it away to feed his rabbits. The grand jury indicted him for grand larceny, and he was arraigned for trial. The Court surprised the District Attorney and prosecuting witness, by deciding that Linter had not been guilty of grand larceny in carrying away the corn, but of simple trespass. The Court ruled that if the corn had been gathered and then taken away, it would have been larceny, but being still in stalk and the stalk growing in the ground, it was part of the realty and could not be stolen. This ruling resulted in finding Linter, who was indicted for felony, the sum of five dollars.

It appears from the decision of the Court in this case that a person can steal corn, fruit, trees, or even a building, in fact anything that is part of the realty, without committing a more serious offense than trespass, but if he steals corn, apples, or a window or door that is not attached to a building, he commits a felony.

DECLINED THE WRONG TIME.

The report is telegraphed from Washington that the President is sorely disappointed by the tone as well as the untimely appearance of the Blaine letter. A gentleman who was present when a conversation took place between Attorney General Miller, the old law partner of Mr. Harrison, and Private Secretary Halibut, says that General Miller remarked that he could not see what Blaine's letter is to the President now. Had it been written a month ago, when the President wanted to declare war against Chile, it would have been of great benefit to him, or had he withheld it until the State conventions for the election of delegates to the National convention were being held, it would be useful, but at this time it does no good. The tone of the letter is not what Mr. Harrison had reason to expect from a member of his Cabinet. It does not even allude to the Administration, which it should have compromised.

Such remarks from the President's own intimate friends, indicate the feeling existing in the White House toward Mr. Blaine, and what Mr. Blaine's feelings are toward the President, is not a difficult matter to surmise.

THE SPOTS ON THE SUN.

Scientists, especially astronomers, are taking great interest in the spots which are now visible on the sun. The observers at Harvard University estimate the area of the new spot to be 100,000 miles long by 50,000 miles wide. It occupies one-seventh of the diameter of the sun, and makes the most magnificent display seen on the sun's surface in twenty years.

The Harvard professors predict that magnetic disturbance on the earth will follow and we may expect a violent storm somewhere on our planet before long. This theory, the San Francisco papers say, is ridiculed by Professor Davidson, who says there is no reason for believing that there will be any resultant activity of the earth's atmosphere. The earth could be dropped into one of those depressions on the sun's surface with no more effect than a scuffle of coal. Scientific endeavor to prove that typhoons and cyclones were the result of solar disturbances, but failed to do so. It is noticeable, however, that on the appearance of a large sun spot the magnetic needle is instantly affected.

ALGER EXPLAINS.

The New York Sun, whose editor, Chas. A. Dana, was Assistant Secretary of War under Lincoln, in discussing editorially the military career of Russell A. Alger, who is a possible candidate for the Presidency, asserts that there exists among the records of the War Department a recommendation that General Alger be dishonorably discharged for being absent from his command without leave. The Sun says Alger was discharged September 20th, 1864, as a result of this recommendation. General Alger says he resigned, as he was unable to enter the field and did not like court martial service, for which he was detailed. He charges that General Custer made the recommendation because of a grudge he had against him (Alger) for refusing to appoint Custer's brother a Lieutenant in his regiment, and that if Custer knew the facts his recommendation was one of the most cruel outrages ever perpetrated on a soldier.

The Mining Market.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 12.—The mining market opened quietly on the early call this morning until Norcross was reached, and the lobby was treated to a sight rarely, if ever before, seen on the floor of the Exchange. The brokers were separated into two cliques, with quite a space between each, setting an entirely different scale of values. One party was trying to keep the stock up with bids at $2 20, taking all offerings at that figure, while the other was throwing shares out in big blocks at $2 10, for the purpose of breaking prices. Between them the price on morning call will average from $2 05 to $2 25, and it will take considerable figuring on all sides to discover who came out on top. The balance of the market, while very sensitive, is not particularly active, and prices steady. In outside mines there is nothing doing and there is no demand for any stocks. After the regular session there was a firmer feeling in Norcross, and the market generally closed a shade higher.

Investigation Being Held.

VALLEJO, February 12.—This was the fourth day of the investigation of charges against Foreman Shipsmith C. I. Phelps accused of extorting money from his men. One witness was examined. Robert Peoples, a blacksmith, and his man, are said to have paid money to Phelps. He denied the charge strongly. Watson, his accuser, has been on the stand three days and he and another witness have testified to the damage of Phelps. J. A. Stephens, formerly District Attorney of Storey county, Nevada, and Judge Taylor of San Francisco are the representatives of Phelps, and Captain Cochrane is Judge Advocate. The investigation will continue another week at the present rate of progress.

News of Importance From Home and Abroad.

A Good Petition.

WASHINGTON, February 12.—The Ways and Means Committee of the House will be petitioned to prepare a bill invoking the paternal condemnation of the Government upon the cigarette habit. Representatives Cockran, Cummins and Stahlbecker of New York, all have in their possession bills which they have been petitioned to introduce, providing for the suppression of cigarette manufacturer, by imposing an internal revenue tax of $10 per thousand on all imported or domestic cigarettes sold in this country.

Accompanying the memorial is a statement to the effect that throughout the United States during the past year there has been about one hundred deaths of young men, mostly under sixteen years of age, from the effects of smoking paper wrapped cigarettes, and about one hundred men have been consigned to insane asylums during the same time for the same cause. There has never yet been a chemist of any responsibility, who has examined paper wrapped cigarettes, who has not most decidedly pronounced them injurious. The internal revenue tax is now fifty cents per 1,000 on them.

The proposed tax would place them at a price that children could not pay and go farther than any State legislation could go, and meet with the approval of every man and woman in the country. Representative Cockran will file his bill with the Ways and Means Committee.

Stout's Resolution.

WASHINGTON, February 12.—Representative Stout of Michigan to-day introduced a resolution citing a new combination of coal roads; representing it in the words of the resolution, "nominal capital of $600,000, the plant of which could be duplicated for half the sum," and requesting the Committee on Inter-State Commerce to investigate the matter and report whether such consolidations should not be prohibited by national law, and whether the Bureau of Inter-State Transportation should not be organized, headed by a Cabinet officer, to be known as the Secretary of Commerce.

A representative McRae to-day reported favorably from the House Committee on Public Lands, with recommendation that it do pass, a bill for the relief of purchasers of certain swamp and overflow lands. The bill proposes to give the State the purchase money realized from the sale of lands within their boundaries erroneously sold, and at the same time confirm the title to the purchaser from the United States. Two years is fixed as the time within which all claims shall be presented.

Failed to Appear.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 12.—United States District Judge Morrow on January 28th fired to-day for the appearance in Court of one hundred and forty Chinese, who were given their liberty on bonds but who were to have been remanded to-day to the custody of the U. S. Marshal and be returned to China. Each principal had two Chinese sureties on his bond, and in all there appeared to be over four hundred Chinese interested in the proceedings, and in case the principals failed to appear the sureties were liable for the gross sum of $210,000. Neither the principals nor sureties appeared in Court to-day, and Judge Morrow ordered all the cases to be defaulted and the bonds forfeited. When, however, Judge Morrow issued an order looking to the collection of the amounts due for the sureties, Assistant United States Attorney Witter said that, under a ruling by Attorney General Miller, no suits were authorized by the Government against sureties where recovery was not probable. Witter was instructed to ask for another ruling in this case from the Attorney General, but it is understood that but few of the bonds are supposed to be collectable.

The Mining Market.

SAN FRANCISCO, February 12.—The mining market opened quietly on the early call this morning until Norcross was reached, and the lobby was treated to a sight rarely, if ever before, seen on the floor of the Exchange. The brokers were separated into two cliques, with quite a space between each, setting an entirely different scale of values. One party was trying to keep the stock up with bids at $2 20, taking all offerings at that figure,

Grand Jury Report.

SACRAMENTO, February 12.—The Grand Jury submitted a report this afternoon. The report says the jury has investigated the rumors of corruption in the election of a United States Senator to succeed Senator Hearst. Some positive and damaging testimony was elicited, but the preponderance of evidence was so great that the jury was unable to find any indictments in connection therewith. The jury says the waste paper basket scandal of the last Legislature was investigated, but no facts substantiating the charges of corruption and bribery in the Senatorial contest could be found.

Bruner Must Stand Trial.

SACRAMENTO, February 12.—Judge Van Fleet overruled the demurser of the defendant in the case of C. J. Stillwell vs. Elwood Bruner. Stillwater is the Examiner reporter who paid Assemblyman Bruner $400 to secure him in position on the San Francisco police force. Bruner was exposed, and Stillwell brings suit to recover the money. The Court holds that the defendant's plea of equal criminality is not good and he must stand trial.

The Silver Question.

WASHINGTON, February 12.—A member of the Rules Committee said this afternoon there was no disposition on the part of the Committee to retard the consideration of the silver question and that the Committee would be found disposed to bring the matter to a conclusion in the House and he was personally of the opinion that there would be no filibustering.

Brewery Seized.

SACRAMENTO, February 12.—The Sacramento Brewery has been seized by order of Colonel Byington, Revenue Collector for this district, for violation of the internal revenue laws. Officers are making an inspection of the books.

Silver Purchases.

WASHINGTON, February 12.—The Treasury Department to-day purchased 153,000 ounces of silver at $0 9050 and $0 9060.

TWO NOTABLE DEATHS.

Sir Morrell Mackenzie, the Eminent London Physician, and Prof. Theodore Mommsen, the Historian.

Sir Morrell Mackenzie, well known as the surgeon in attendance upon the late Emperor Frederic during his long-contended and painful illness, died at his home in London on the evening of Wednesday, February 3. This distinguished physician was born in Leystone, Essex, in 1837, and was educated at the London Hospital College and at the Universities of Paris and London. A little later he was elected assistant physician to the London Hospital, at which he subsequently became full physician and lecturer on diseases of the throat. He was corresponding member of the Imperial Royal Society of Physicians of Vienna and of the Medical Society of Prague, and an honorary fellow of the American Laryngological Association. He was also author of numerous works on laryngological subjects.

A WOMAN DOCTOR'S BROUGHAM.

It is Nothing More nor Less than a Private Traveling Dressing Room.

A busy woman doctor in Brooklyn, whose practice is so extensive that it keeps her driving over the city's ill paved streets for many hours every day, has had made for her a brougham which combines about as many comforts as is possible to pack into so confined a space. To begin with, under the seat is a capacious drawer, divided into compartments, to hold those surgical instruments which a doctor must carry.

In the same drawer is found room for two or three small handbags containing an assortment of medicines. There is also space for a small portable electric battery in its polished wood case. These are all hidden away, however, when the drawer is shut, and so do not mar by their painful suggestiveness the snugly comfortable appearance of the rest of the interior.

There is nothing out of the way about this, of course. The novel features are all in the front of the brougham facing the occupant. The most "striking" is a pretty clock, by which the doctor times her visits and the speed of her coachman. It is screwed to the wall, so to speak, at convenient height. Underneath it is a silver plated flower holder, for the doctor has lost none of her essentially feminine tastes because she has learned how to saw your leg off.

Then in a little pocket in the lining of the carriage is a manicure set, for a doctor's hands should always be a joy to look at, even when they belong to a man. In another pocket is a brush and comb and some hairpins. This doctor's hair is thick and long and a little unruly, being generally charged with electricity from her intensely energetic spirit. In another pocket is a whisk, for the roads are mostly dusty in Brooklyn, and the doctor's costumes have inspired many a young woman to acquire a profession. Another fold hides a scent bottle. Siccruous are often poorly ventilated.

There is a mirror, of course, that can be hung on a hook just below the clock and then returned to its pocket. A fan peeps out there, a glove button here and a bigger pocket than all has generally one or two of the latest numbers of the magazines; medical ones for the doctor's own perusal as she walks along, and more entertaining ones for her friends. For this doctor is seldom seen driving about alone.

She generally has some of her patients or her friends with her, and when conversation flags, or the guest is waiting in the brougham while the doctor is calling on a patient, the magazine keeps the time from dragging. Even her coachman gets the benefit of this feature, and he may often be seen, looking more comfortable than "correct," leaning back upon his box with a copy of a recent publication in his hand.—New York Tribune.

Strange Oversight.

It is dangerous as well as wicked to do wrong in the presence of children. An observant little boy was in a street car the other day, and followed every movement of the conductor with the greatest interest.

A very stout woman boarded the car and sat down next to the small boy. She took a ticket out of her purse, but when the conductor came along he somehow failed to notice her. He passed and re-passed her several times, and finally, with a nervous glance around, she replaced the ticket in her purse.

This was too much for the small boy, who had all the while kept his eye on her, and the next time the conductor came along he exclaimed:

"You didn't get her money, mister. I don't see how you missed her. She's the fattest lady in the car. Anybody could see her."

This complimentary allusion to the woman's weight caused a blush to play over her broad face, and she quickly produced a ticket, while all the other passengers smiled.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

November in American History.

A most notable November in our history was that one in 1765, the first day of which was observed throughout the thirteen colonies as a period of mourning, on account of the going into effect of the hated stamp act. It increased the burden of taxation upon those who had no voice in their own government and aroused them to such a sense of injustice that ten years later they rebelled and the war of the Revolution began. On the first day of November, therefore, the church bells were solemnly tolled, flags floated at half mast and business was everywhere suspended. All over the land such men as Samuel Adams, Patrick Henry, James Otis and John Adams addressed patriotic speeches to throngs of their countrymen and fired their hearts with thoughts of a glorious independence.—Kirke Munroe in Harper's Young People.

A Suit Made of Ratkins.

A thrifty Welshman at one time exhibited himself publicly in England attired in a costume composed from top to toe of ratkins, which he had spent three years and a half in collecting. The dress was made entirely by himself. It consisted of hat, neckerchief, coat, waistcoat, trousers, tippet, gaiters and shoes. The number of rats required to complete the suit was 870. Most curious of the garments was the tippet, composed entirely of rats' tails. At one time a batch of several thousand ratskins was imported from France into England for manufacturing purposes, but they were found too small and too fine in texture to be useful.—Washington Star.

The Aromatic Clove Tree.

A peculiarity of the clove tree is that every part of it is aromatic, though the greatest strength is in the bud. Besides the buds, the stems are gathered and form an article of commerce commanding one-fifth the price of cloves, and having about the same percentage of strength. To this is due the fact that ground cloves can be purchased in the home market at a lower price than whole cloves.—Exchange.

Secrets of Comfort.

Though sometimes small evils, like invisible insects, inflict pain and a single hair may stop a vast machine, yet the chief secret of comfort lies in not suffering trifles to vex one and in patiently trifling an underworld of small miseries, since very few great ones are let on long leaves.—New York Journal.
